BermudaDances | Hospital to Keep Tabs On Babies Until Twelve

A novel plan of disease prevention in children has been adopted by the New York Nursery and Child's Hospital, whereby the physical progress of all children born under the care of the institution will be watched until their twelfth year. Dr. Jesse F. Sammis, director of the pediatric service of the hospital, made the announcement yesterday, saying that the plan would supplant the nospital's pre-natal work. Normal infants and healthy children, as well as the less fortunate among the 2,500 infants born in the indoor and outdoor departments of the hospital each year, will be given careful at-
